Our City comment & discussion by THOMAS D. WATSON

Los Angeles Shows It Has Little to Offer to Glendale

ACCORDING to a statement made by Office Engineer D. M. True of the Los Angeles engineering force, street improvements already authorized for the city of Los Angeles cannot be put through for nearly two years.

This delay is accounted for by a serious congestion in the street planning division.

* * *

WE rejoice in the fact that the phenomenal growth of the city of Los Angeles is such that this delay is made necessary, but this is just another argument against Glendale annexing to Los Angeles. If street improvements already authorized have to be delayed for two years, what chance would we have in getting anything done for several years? Our streets, while not overly good, are being given more consideration than Los Angeles city would give them.

* * *

THE Glendale city council at its meeting last evening revised the proposed dog ordinance. Some of the objectional features were changed so that the ordinance as it now stands will probably be satisfactory to the citizens and prove just as efficient in controling the stray dog situation. As the ordinance now reads it is optional with the owner as to whether his dog is to be vaccinated.

* * *

IF vaccinated, the dog will be permitted to be on the streets. Those dogs which are not vaccinated must be kept on a leash. If found on the streets loose they will be picked up and placed in the pound. To secure the return of his dog the owner must either submit to a fine or have the dog vaccinated.

* * *

OWNERS can now take pets away from their premises if they have them on a leash.

We have always said that Glendale citizens would welcome an ordinance for the control of stray dogs, but all the ordinances heretofore proposed have aimed not to control but to prohibit the keeping of a dog.

* * *

IT looks as though the coming of the warm weather would not deter the building activity in Glendale. Yesterday's building permits totaled $67,500, the largest permit issued being for the building of a school for the Seventh Day Adventists. The school, which is to cost $26,000, is to be located on Sycamore Canyon road, not far from the new plant of the Glendale sanitarium, which is also being built by the Seventh Day Adventists.

PRO-LIQUOR forces of the state of Wisconsin, gaining heart through the success of the wet element in New York in having the state liquor enforcement act repealed, are planning on offering almost a duplicate of the New York bill to the legislature of Wisconsin. We would recommend that they delay action until they find how the federal agents will control the New York situation.

Up to the present time the passing of the bill has made little difference in the liquor situation in New York.

It is our opinion that now that the enforcing of the law is strictly up to federal authorities that New York will be drier than it was when the responsibility was divided. The president has made the statement that the federal enactment will be enforced and we have every confidence not only in his statement but the ability of the federal agents.

The New York wets will learn that they have gained only an empty victory.

MEXICAN TRIES TO STAGE HOLD-UP ON SAN FERNANDO

L. E. Schillingsberger of Los Angeles Is Stopped on Way Home

An attempt was made to hold up and rob L. E. Schillingberger of 227 West Adams street, Los Angeles, at 9 o'clock last night, according to the records of the police department. The report was turned in from the oil station at 900 South San Fernando road.

It was stated that Mr. Schillingberger had completed a realty deal in Glendale yesterday and had considerable money with him at the time. The attempt, made by a Mexican of small build, who wore a slouch hat, failed.

Distinguished Glendale Artists to Appear on the Program

Rehearsals for the "Tone Pageant," to be given Saturday night, June 9, at the Tuesday Afternoon Club auditorium for the benefit of the piano fund, indicate that this event, which is to be presented in costume, will be something unique in musical programs. It will portray the history of music, the folk songs of the various countries, the presentation of Haydn's "Toy Symphony" and modern music.

The program will open with a prologue by Mrs. A. H. Montgomery. Other artists who will appear include Mrs. Helen Graham Cole, Mayor Spencer Robinson and Miss Hazel Linkogel. They will be assisted by the following piano pupils of Mrs. Pearl Curran, Herbert Howeth, Roger Early, Betty Thompson, Margaret Thompson, Mary Blue, Myrl Linkogel, Fern Johnson, Lois Keeley, Anna Ratigan, Ruth Houle, Helen Houle, Louise Emerick, Francis Hawlish, Daniel Hawlish, Lura Baldwin, Harmon Bunting, Beatrice Smith, Edith Addison, Maxine Heasley, Sallie Heasley, Ida Mae Campbell, Mildred Randolph, Vera Lockwood, Isabel Elliot, Cleone Barton, Ethel Barton, Otis Goettel, June Spear, Ella May, Henry Grace, Evelyn Plunkett, Evelyn Harris, Paul Scott, Florence Fenstermacher and Anna Abrahamson.

The following violinists, students from Glendale Union High school, Erma May Snow, Ruth Goldsborough, Dorothy Zeitlin, Betty Crossin and Carmela Karr, will assist the following group of pupils of Miss Hazel Linkogel in the presentation of the Toy Symphony: Mary Kirby, Maxine Weinberg, James Edmunds, Waldo Forrester, George Hall, George Francis, Frank Wyckoff, Alfred Gorton, Isabel Speight, Rex Northland, Catherine Lord, Phyllis Wood and Eben Seidenglanz.

Arrangements for the details of this unusual program are in charge of Mrs. Curran and Miss Linkogel.

PRESS CARRIERS PREVIEW SHOW AT T. D. & L.

Seventy-five Have Good Time As Guests of Theater

All told, it was a wonderful night for some 75 paper carriers of the Glendale Daily Press who were the guests of H. A. Albright last night at the initial vaudeville preview which was shown in addition to "Rose O' the Sea," starring Anita Stewart, at the T. D. & L. Cheering and giving their yells, the boys gathered at the Press office at 8 o'clock, and at the word go, the grand procession started its meandering course down the street, the boys in the lead carrying a banner designating that these were the carrier boys for the Glendale Press. Vernon Foster and Howard Scott, assisted by Randall Bacon and Donald Herron carried the banner.

Arrived at the theater entrance, after claiming the attention of pedestrians and motorists, the youngsters formed in even ranks and led by Miles Van Fleet, joined the "sky rocket" and other yells, two by two, the boys were then admitted to the theater, each boy being given a box of chocolates as he entered. Several members of the circulation department and editorial staff of the Press were present to assist in keeping order, but after the youngsters found themselves comfortably seated, no measures for keeping order were found necessary, as they behaved themselves like the gentlemen they have been trained to be.

Thorough appreciation was shown for the seven vaudeville numbers given at the preview. Those containing snatches of comedy met with the highest approval, as might have been expected.

Mr. Albright has further extended his generosity to the carrier boys through issuing passes, which will grant them special privileges, except on Sundays and holidays. The big theater party is planned as a monthly event, and performs a big function in making the lives of several score of small boys, and some big ones too, the happier for it.

N. Y. OFFICIALS MUST ENFORCE CONSTITUTION

State Prohibition Director Warns Them They Are Still Responsible

[By Associated Press]

NEW YORK, June 5.—Police commissioners of various cities, sheriffs and directors of the state troopers were warned in letters dictated by Palmer Canfield, federal prohibition director of New York state, today that they were still responsible and must help enforce the 18th amendment, despite the repeal of the Mullan-Gage enforcement act.

L. Amasa Wilson, 649 West Harvard, had a narrow escape from death Monday night when his auto was struck and nearly demolished by a fast Glendale car on the Pacific Electric line on the Edendale crossing. He was waiting on the track for an Edendale car to get out of his way and did not see or hear the on-coming Glendale car. The auto was knocked about three rods and he was wrenched and bruised, but suffered no serious injuries.

WEBB'S NEW STORE IS WELCOMED INTO GLENDALE BUSINESS

Thousands Throng the Aisles and Congratulate the Proprietor on the Elaborate Setting for the Merchandising of Future Years

SCORES OF FLORAL TRIBUTES ARE SHOWN

Musical Program Gives Social Notes to Assemblage of Friends and Patrons Who Reveal Enthusiastic Support of Venture

By JENNIE SWENSON

Between five and six thousand visited the premises of H. S. Webb's new department store at Wilson and Brand boulevard last night when an elaborate formal opening was held.

When the doors opened a large crowd that had been waiting eagerly immediately filed down the aisles, between the cases of attractively displayed goods, enhanced by the presence of scores of beautiful floral tributes, the contributions of the many friends of H. S. Webb and his firm.

Kelly's Shrine orchestra started the syncopations of "Carolina in the Morning," as the visitors expressed admiration for the many exceptional features of the new store. While the music continued the crowd increased in size, and before many minutes had elapsed every available passageway was taken by the eager spectators.

The attractively and artistically arranged window displays called forth expressions of the highest approval from all who entered, many pausing to linger over the displays. D. L. Ludwig, manager of the advertising department, is responsible for the effective touches in color combinations, and choice of models to be shown. The left window was devoted to ready-to-wear, showing a black evening dress, trimmed in gold lace, and a jade beaded Georgette afternoon dress, with gloves, beads and other dainty appointments of Milady's toilet. The other window showed various combinations for sports attire, including the colored sandals, with hose to match.

The first floor, the mazzanine floor, and the second floor, all attracted attention and admiration. Everything was in perfect order, up-to-date showcases, interior finishing, and methods of display, everything that could be asked.

Aside from the delightful music furnished by Kelly's Orchestra, several special numbers were offered by soloists who are favorites with the people of Glendale. Mrs. Mina Wenzel sang "For You Alone" and "The Heart That's True," accompanied by the orchestra. D. Ripley Jackson sang "Spray of Roses" and "Out Where the Blue Begins."

Dainty Adeline Woodbury presented several numbers, both vocal and instrumental. Among these she sang "You Got to See Mamma

DOG ORDINANCE IS AMENDED ON PROTEST

Owners Secure Modification of Vaccination Requirement

Glendale's dog ordinance was given a thorough "airing out" at the meeting of the city council Monday night. Several dog owners were present and protested against the passage of the ordinance in its original form. Before the meeting was adjourned a number of changes were ordered.

As revised, the ordinance will contain the following points:

If the dog is vaccinated it may run the streets at will.

If not vaccinated it will be picked up and placed in the pound, and to redeem it the owner will have to pay a fine of possibly $5 or less, or have the dog vaccinated.

Owners will be permitted to take their dogs on the street on leash.

They may also have their dogs in their machines on leash, but not untied.

The city attorney was instructed to make the proposed corrections to the ordinance and to have it ready for the Thursday night meeting.

HI CAMPAIGN ASSEMBLY ON WEDNESDAY

Strong Candidates for President Presented for Election

RACE FOR SECRETARY

Two Candidates Out to Head the Publication Work of School

Wednesday morning campaign assemblies will be held at Glendale high to boost for the competing candidate for officers of the student body the next semester.

Thursday, during rollcall periods, the election will be held.

A very fine lot of candidates have filed petitions, the three competing for the presidency being: Isabel Tousey, who has represented the school in important league debates; Ronald West and Arden Gingery.

Boyd Taylor and Charles Worley are the candidates for secretary of assemblies and are likely to run neck and neck. Worley has acquitted himself creditably in debates and Boyd Taylor has won great popularity as a yell leader.

Two good candidates are up for secretary of publications: Horace Anderson and Loren Scoville. Both are competent and both have strong support.

Paul Cunningham and Katherine McNary are running for the office of secretary of debating and either one is capable of filling the office acceptably.

Richard Ryan and Leslie Lavelle have been nominated by Coach Hayhurst for secretary of boys' athletics. Both have distinguished themselves in that line.

Mary Jo Phillips and Dona Sample have been nominated for secretary of girls' athletics and they are about equally matched in strength.

For secretary of state, Villa Botsford and Mildred Fischer have been nominated by J. Rhea Baker, head of the commercial department, and both are excellent candidates who have proved their ability.

In a similar manner Grace Miller and Spencer Jewell have become candidates for the office of secretary of finance. Both are hard workers and responsible.

The only candidates sure of election is Dannie Berman, who is the aspirant for the office of yell leader.

All candidates must be up in their school work and show a creditable rating before their names can appear on the ballot. They are therefore busy today getting their cards of qualification O. K.'d by teachers and the office.

MILLIONS OF DOLLARS FOR IMPROVEMENTS

[By Associated Press]

TUCSON, Ariz., June 5.—An extensive improvement program has been begun by the Southern Pacific company at Yuma, Ariz. Projected construction, to cost approximately $2,000,000, includes a new bridge over the Colorado river, a new passenger station and yard at Yuma, four miles of new single track main line and several other features.

CERRITOS AVENUE MAY BE OPENED FOR S. P. DEPOT

Agreement Reached Between City Council and So. Glendale Folks

An agreement was reached Monday night between the Glendale city council and the residents of South Glendale whereby the opening the lower end of Cerritos avenue for the accommodation of the new Southern Pacific station may be facilitated.

This consists of the formation of an assessment district in the immediate vicinity of the station to raise one-half of the amount desired, the remaining one-half to be taken out of the general fund. The council believes that the property in the region of the station will be especially benefited to the extent of one-half of the amount of the opening costs, while the placing of the depot at that point will be of sufficient interest to the entire city to warrant the remaining half being taken out of the general fund.

Several amounts were named last night as the proposed costs of the opening of the blind end of Cerritos. George Bentley, chairman of the depot committee of the Glendale chamber of commerce, said that, in his opinion, the two lots if condemned, along with the improvement of the opened street, would cost about $15,000. Mayor Robinson stated that he heard it would cost about $18,000.

Regardless of the cost it was stated by the southenders present that the people of that section would be favorable to the formation of a district to raise that amount. Several residents from that section spoke on the matter and everyone heard from stated that he or she would be willing to give their share of the opening costs.

It is proposed to make the assessment district as small as possible, the suggestion being made that it be bounded by Los Feliz road, Glendale avenue and the Southern Pacific tracks. The city engineer was instructed by the council to prepare a map of the assessment district which will place the costs to the various property owners. This, it is understood, will be ready for consideration by Thursday night.

City Manager Reeves has devised a plan for the establishment of the street to the station from both Brand boulevard and Los Feliz road. This would consist of the purchase of the lot connecting the company's right of way with Brand by an assessment district, this to provide an inlet from Brand. There is a street called "Railroad street," 30 feet in width, running at the south side of the Bentley Lumber company, from the railroad company's right of way to Los Feliz. This, Mr. Reeves states, could easily be widened by the railroad company to 50 or 60 feet, and would thereby provide an entrance to the station from the south and west.

"The entrances from Los Feliz and Brand should be put through at the same time Cerritos is opened," said Manager Reeves this morning. "This would relieve congestion and would afford the station access from every desired point."

MEMORY OF MRS. TOWER IS HONORED

Organizations Postpone Meetings to Mark Sorrow at Her Passing

EMBOLISM IS CAUSE

Stricken in the Midst of Health and Activity in Affairs

By GERTRUDE GIBBS

There is mourning in Glendale over the untimely death of Pearl Tower, wife of A. W. Tower, and mother of little Ruth Tower. She was the type of woman who can ill be spared and her going will leave vacant a niche in many an organization in this city of which she was a beloved and efficient working member.

It is expected that funeral services will be held Wednesday, but no definite announcement has been made to the Jewel City company, which will have charge of arrangements.

Word has been received from Mrs. Tower's brother, Mr. Collins at Anderson, Indiana, that it will be impossible for him to come. Her other near relatives, her parents and sister, live near the Tower home in this city.

Death is said to have been caused by embolism, a clot which formed in the blood and caused instant death when it reached a vital organ.

On the day she passed away she was expected to attend a meeting at the home of Mrs. H. E. Bartlett of the newly organized "Past Presidents of the Tuesday Afternoon club," of which Mrs. Robert Blackburn had been made president and Mrs. Tower secretary-treasurer. About 9 o'clock in the morning, Mrs. Bartlett had a conversation with Mrs. Tower and could hardly credit the sad news when informed of her death.

Most of the functions of Tuesday club sections planned for this week have been called off, viz: the meetings of the Literary section and the Shakespeare section. The College Women's club which was to have had a luncheon at the Tuesday Afternoon club house on the 9th, has postponed it until the 16th. Mrs. Tower was chairman of the program committee, and the club will attend the funeral services in a body.

Mrs. Tower has also been the able lieutenant of her husband in his work as superintendent of the Sunday school of the First Methodist church, and has been an active, efficient worker in the Ladies' Aid of that church. Its regular meeting which was to have been

MONDAY SHOPPING IS GROWING

Second Weekly Store to Store Plus Press Event Well Attended

NEW CONVERTS MADE

Merchants Pleased Over Growth of Patronage on First Week Day

"Building up" is the word the Glendale merchants give when asked how the Monday shopping campaign is progressing.

In interviewing the various merchants whose advertisements appeared in Saturday's issue of the Glendale Daily Press, not one discouraging report was received. That the Glendale buyers are enthusiastic over the idea of establishing a Monday shopping day in their own city, was more than evident, when they were seen to throng the streets yesterday, even though the sky was overcast.

It was a "blue Monday" only in the condition of the weather. In every other respect Monday was a day of cheerfulness, through the merchants being able to dispose of their goods to pleased customers.

A vast difference is shown in yesterday and the Monday of a week ago, compared with the Mondays previous to the launching of the shopping campaign.

When the merchants will be able to give concrete reports as to the results, it is believed that every advertising merchant will eventually be represented in the Glendale shopping section of the Press. Men who have held prominent business positions, and who are now holding positions of importance, have indorsed this campaign as the most worthwhile venture yet undertaken here.

The first reports coming in yesterday bore the information that the day had been among the best in the commercial history of Glendale. This statement was borne out by Pendroy's, Ferber's, Jensen's drug store, 133 North Brand boulevard; Fisher's Variety Store, 212 East Broadway; McDuffee's Men's Store, Broadway at Maryland; the Elwood Gas Appliance Company, 227 East Broadway; Ed N. Radke, optician and jeweler, 109-B South Brand boulevard; Harry Moore Co., Inc., 304 East Broadway, and the New England Furniture company, 229-231 South Brand boulevard. Many other advertisers were represented in the shopping section and their reports will be quoted at a later date.

Another big shopping section is planned for next Saturday. Here is a tip to the shopper. When the Glendale Press arrives at the door Saturday remove the shopping section and carry it along while visiting the stores. In this way the shopper will be assured of investigating each offer that is made, and may find just the thing wanted listed among the advertisements, and save the trouble of a search.

TWENTY JOIN THE MERCHANTS AND CREDIT MEN

Work of Organization Is Divided to Meet Members' Demands

Twenty new members were added to the Glendale Merchants and Glendale Credit association at the noon luncheon meeting yesterday at the Glen Inn. The association was divided into two divisions sometime ago, namely, the Glendale Merchants' association and the Glendale Credit association, in order that those who so desired might join the Glendale Merchants' association without contributing to the upkeep of the credit department, as many business men do business on a cash basis. Through the efforts of Secretary Pilling the following names were added to the membership yesterday:

Merchants' Association

McClellan & Long, shoe merchants, 116-A South Brand.

Greenleaf Drug company, Brand and Harvard.

J. R. Daugherty, 219½ East Broadway, bakery.

John C. Olson, grocer, San Fernando and Brand.

C. M. Bressinger, 131 South Central, delicatessen.

C. A. Halstrom, 142 North Brand, bakery.

T. D. & L. Theater, H. A. Allbright.

M. A. Lavin, 215 East Broadway, Chrisman - Palladine company, contractors, 121 South Orange.

Glendale Credit Association

R. E. Corrigan, 116 West Colorado.

Lee D. Childers, 543 North Brand.

Arthur M. Shoffner, 121 South Maryland.

Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital.

Dr. R. E. Chase, 103½ South Brand.

W. A. Howe, Glendale Theater.

Glendale Building & Loan association, 212½ West Broadway.

Glendale Manufacturing Co., 400 South San Fernando road.

Dr. C. M. Cagle, 111 East Broadway.

Glendale Furniture company, 606 East Broadway.

Glendale Lumber company, San Fernando road.

Dr. W. R. Crowell, 111 East Broadway.

The association is taking on new life and Secretary Pilling expects to add many new names to the membership.

The matter of Glendale's industrial exposition was taken up, but definite action was postponed until the meeting of the joint committees of the chamber of commerce and Merchants' association reports.

The information was given out that many bad checks are being floated in Glendale, and merchants are asked to watch out for strangers.

When Ethel went round to visit her chum one evening she found her utterly miserable.

"Whatever is the matter, Lily?" she asked.

Lily's face grew longer than ever as she answered between sobs:

"I've broken off my engagement with Jack."

"Never mind, Lily," said Ethel, comfortingly, "he is certain to come round and patch it up with you before long."

"I don't think so," replied Lily. "You see, I wrote and told him never to see me or write to me again. And," she added vehemently, "he hasn't even been nice enough to answer my letter."

'LAST MOMENT' IS STUDY IN MAN'S COURAGE

Is the coward more heroic than the brave man? This is not superfluous question No. 9,286,537, but is a really serious query propounded in connection with the Goldwyn picture, "The Last Moment," produced and directed by J. Parker Read, Jr., the attraction for the last time tonight at the Glendale theater.

The theme of the story is the horror of fear. The brave man may know no fear. The coward knows fear and the horror of fear. Yet the coward may go into danger just as readily as the brave man. Which, in such circumstances, is the more heroic? The answer given by Mr. Read's photoplay is that the man who will go into danger knowing what the horror of fear is, is more of a hero than the man who goes into the same danger without knowing fear.

The man in "The Last Moment" thought himself a coward and knew fear unspeakable, but when the right incentive, his love for a clean, sweet girl came to him he faced dangers—unknown perils which are harder on the spirit than known dangers—with a courage he never dreamed he had.

"The Last Moment" is an original screen story by Jack Boyle, author of the famous "Boston Blackie" stories. The three leading roles are acted by three prominent Broadway stars—Henry Hull, Doris Kenyon and Louis Wolheim.

DR. KLIESER IS NEWEST COMER TO GLENDALE

"I've been wanting to come to Glendale for a long time," said Dr. Joseph A. Klieser, Fresno dentist, who has just located both home and office here.

"My affairs at Fresno have tied me up for some time, but I have finally managed to come to Glendale with my wife," he added. Dr. Klieser and wife have purchased a beautiful home at 1530 Grand View, from Mrs. F. K. Gates, and Dr. Klieser has taken offices at 107½ South Brand boulevard.

Receiving his graduation certificate from the Kansas City Dental College, Dr. Klieser has enjoyed a wide practice in Fresno. He owns several hundred acres of ranch property there at the present time, but is seeking to sever all connections in order to become strictly Glendalian.

Prior to practicing dentistry, Dr. Klieser was connected with the Santa Rosa Press-Democrat, as illustrator. His newspaper career, though of short duration, was successful.

MISS HALL WEDS EUGENE MERCER AT HER HOME

Pastor of Bride's Family Officiates at the Services

Miss Elizabeth Hall, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Hall of 1201 Viola avenue, and Eugene Ray Mercer of Los Angeles, were married at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon, June 3, 1923, at the home of the bride's parents. Rev. W. H. Hannaford of Sonoma County, former pastor of the Halls at Ventura, officiated at the wedding ceremony, which took place in the presence of a group of fifty immediate relatives and intimate friends.

The house was decorated with a profusion of spring blossoms and ferns. Preceding the ceremony Miss Beatrice Kellenburger sang "I Love You Truly," accompanied at the piano by Miss Eva Rasmussen of Ventura, who also played the "Wedding March." James Whalen gave a vocal selection, "At Dawning" (Cadman), after the wedding, which was followed by a reception.

The bride wore a gown of white Georgette crepe and satin and carried a shower bouquet of white rosebuds and lilies of the valley. She was given in marriage by her father.

Mr. and Mrs. Mercer will spend their honeymoon at Wheeler's Hot Springs, after which they will make their home in Los Angeles. Their wedding was the culmination of a romance which began when both were attending high school at Ventura. Mrs. Mercer has been a resident of Glendale for about three years.

DECORATIONS AT THE EXPOSITION

Le-Co. Put Over Big Work on the Merchants' Booths

The Industrial Exposition which closed Sunday night was in point of attendance, in the number of exhibitors and in the stretch of canvas which housed the various exhibits, worthy to rank with the few recorded successful expositions held in Southern California.

The Le-Co decorators had a small army of artists and artisans working day and night erecting booths the orders of many of which were belated, announced one hour before the opening that every booth was complete.

This company was responsible for the unusual variety of designs and artistic finish on a large number of booths and for the color scheme afforded in the decorations of the tent.

Particularly attractive was the booth of the Sierra Club presenting a beautifully painted landscape picturing Scotland Highlands with the emblematic heather as a fringe, and that of Twining & Myers showing a sketch of an ideal home.

Pendroy Dry Goods Co. contributed most pleasingly in their artistically arranged booth and adjoining, the Davis Standard Baking Co. in beautiful surroundings presented the virtues of their products, and farther along the walk the Security Housing Corporation most attractively showed a faithfully painted reproduction of a French chateau.

The Grocerteria in most generous space and artistic finish drew many compliments and Robinson Bros. seemed to have transplanted their recently constructed storage building to the tent so truly did the Le-Co artist sketch this structure.

Notable also for beauty and suggestive artistry were the sections of Forest Lawn Memorial Park, Dixon Sash & Door company, and Coker & Taylor.

R. L. Lee, manager of the Le-Co Decorators paid a high compliment to Fred H. Roberts for the beautiful decorations of the Glendale Ice Cream company booth, the entire work upon which was done by Mr. Roberts and which proved to be a point of attraction to thousands who passed through the tent.

WHAT WOULD YOU DO WITH ONE MILLION?

CHICAGO, Ill., June 5.—(United Press).—What would you do with a million dollars?

Several of the "Springer heirs, inc.," who claim they are about to inherit $500,000,000 worth of Wilmington, Del., property, by proving their rights through a title alleged to have been granted to one of the original Springers, answered the question in interviews with the United Press.

There are several hundred of the "heirs," most of whom have lived lives of hard work. A representative number of them held a convention in Chicago to lay plans for what they said would result in the $500,000,000 inheritance, giving them about $1,000,000 each after "expenses" were paid.

"With my riches," C. M. Chown, Lima, Ohio, declared, "I will build spiritual temples in Lima and Clinton. My money will be used to lead straying feet onto righteous paths."

"I will buy an airplane, so I can visit Chicago easily, and I will go in for raising Belgian police dogs," Mrs. Emma B. Sprnger, widow, of Indianapolis, said.

A home for old maids and bachelors of the Springer heirs would be built by Maud Lindley, Chicago.

J. W. Lutes, Chicago, laborer, said he had worked long enough and would spend the rest of his life in a plush-covered chair with a pipe in his mouth—IF he got his million.

"A tour of the Pacific Ocean islands and the Orient would be the first thing I would do, and then I would be ready to die," A. H. Dennison, who has farmed all his life near Dunlap, Ill., contended.

J. L. St. Pierre, Detroit, would help his fellowmen by loaning his riches to those wishing to go into business.

"I would also build a castle for my old father and mother, who have had to work hard all their lives to get by," St. Pierre said.

O. C. Crume, farmer, Flora, Ind., has aspirations of becoming a railroad magnate, and said he would buy some kind of a railroad in Indiana, when he gets his munon.

Charles W. Donn, Detroit, remembered the fight his parents made in the struggle for the Spencer inheritance.

"I would build a monument to my mother and father, because they saved all they made to help pay the legal costs in the contest for this property," Donn declared.

Mrs. E. R. Barnes, whose husband is a machinist of South Milwaukee, said she would first see that her little girl had all the luxuries and pretty things that she desired.

"I would shingle the roof of the old home, and pay off all my debts," W. H. Nichols, garage owner, Charleston, Ill., said.

A million dollars to Mrs. Frank Hurtt, Cedar Rapids, Ia., would mean a college education for her son, while Mrs. R. C. O'Hara, Chicago, would buy an automobile and make an overland trip to California.

Women may come and women may go, but a man can always depend upon his mother.

ROOSEVELT DAM GROWS WITH NEW PROJECT

Full Latent Resources of Salt River to Be Utilized

PHOENIX, Ariz., June 5.—Roosevelt dam, 280 feet high, has had fifteen feet added to its height, thereby increasing its water storage capacity by 270,000 acre feet. This increase was brought about by the Salt River Valley Water Users' association as part of the Mormon Flat development of the full resources latent in the Salt river between Roosevelt dam and the diversion dam at Granite Reef.

The Roosevelt dam, which has played an important part in the development of the Salt river valley, was build by the United States government in 1911 at a cost of $4,091,000. Its length is 1,125 feet and its storage capacity, exclusive of the additional capacity created by the fifteen-foot height increase, is 425,235,000 gallons.

Today the spillways of Roosevelt dam carry nineteen huge steel gates, supported by concrete buttresses and anchored in the solid concrete by immense steel rods. The installation of these gates set a record for speed. The bonds of the Mormon Flat development were voted on January 4, 1923, and the work began the next morning. On March 1 the work had progressed so far that in the event of floods, the additional water contemplated in the development could have been saved. On April 1 the nineteen gates were in place. Each of the nineteen gates is fifteen feet high, twenty-one feet long and weighs nine tons.

These gates are installed in such a manner that in case of heavy flood and a high run off they may be elevated so that the crest of the flood may flow over the lips of the spillway. When the crest of the flood has passed and the height of the water in the lake is equal to the increased height of the dam, the gates are lowered, safely holding 270,000 acre feet of water more than would be otherwise possible.

The method of installing the gates was unique from an engineering standpoint. Ordinarily the gates such as that at the Roosevelt dam, would have been held in place by thick concrete buttresses in order to give the new structure the necessary strength, figuring the required thickness of these buttresses at five feet in each case, nine buttresses such as are in the south spillway, would have meant that the capacity of the spillways had been decreased by forty-five feet, which would have necessitated the widening of the spillways by blasting out fifty feet of the cliff at the end of the spillways. To overcome this necessity, the Water Users' association constructed buttresses firmly to the living rock. The steel rods anchoring each buttress, weigh approximately a ton and a quarter, and combine with the entire structure in each spillway the same strength as would have been obtained by tripling the thickness of the buttresses.

In addition to increasing the capacity of the dam the gates really complete the structure and give it a new appearance. The dam looks bigger than it did before, filling as it does the entire width of the canyon between the cliffs on each side.

The complete Mormon Flat development contemplates two other great improvements. One is the installation of a 7,000 horsepower generating unit in the power house at Roosevelt dam and the other is the building of a dam at Mormon Flat, twenty seven miles below Roosevelt dam. With these two parts of the development completed, it is estimated that the Roosevelt dam power house will generate approximately $4,000 worth of power a day and will continue this rate of generation continuously throughout the year.

CO-OPERATIVE BOY SCOUT CAMP IS CONSIDERED

A special meeting of the Scoutmasters of the Verdugo Hills district council was held Monday evening in the district Scout office for the purpose of fully discussing plans for the 1923 Boy Scout summer vacation camp. It was agreed that a complete announcement of all summer camp plans should be made through the press before the end of this week.

Scout Executive Harold Benner, accompanied by Eagle and Jamboree Scout Walter Wescott and M. E. Hill, Scoutmaster Troop No. 1, Tujunga, left early this morning for Lake Arrowhead where they expect to complete all details relative to the establishment of the summer camp.

The area covered is about 70 square miles, which includes the city, part of San Francisco bay, the Golden Gate, and extending out into the Pacific.

Every important building and landmark in the city is distinguishable on the aero-photo map.

WOMEN MARK THE WORK AND MEMORY OF MRS. A. W. TOWER

hold Thursday, has been called off because of Mrs. Tower's death, Monday night, at the regular meeting of the official board of the church, resolutions of sympathy were adopted to be sent to Mr. Tower.

The Philathea class of the Sunday school, which was to have had a social affair this week at the home of Gladys Flagg, has postponed the party, and other organizations in which she was held in high esteem are mourning her loss.

The J. O. C. of the First Methodist church which was to have held a social meeting tonight, has postponed it to honor the memory of a beloved and valued member.

As a past matron of Glen Eyrie chapter, O. E. S., Mrs. Tower will be honored by past matrons and patrons who are endeavoring to have reproduced in flowers the past matron's jewel—a star in the colors of the order centered with a diamond, and with the gavel of office suspended by a chain.

As a member of Chapter L of the P. E. O. Mrs. Tower held a state certificate of recognition because she had acceptably filled all the offices in the gift of the chapter. It is expected that the members of the chapter will attend the funeral in a body.

PUSH WORK ON THE LOS ANGELES PAGEANT

[By Associated Press]

LOS ANGELES, June 5.—Construction of the picturesque pueblo which is to house the American Historical Revue and Motion Picture Exposition, scheduled to open here July 2, has begun and three shifts of workmen soon will be placed on the project to rush it to completion.

Meanwhile an historical commission, consisting of thirteen college presidents and historians, is drafting the scenario for the pageant which will depict outstanding events in the history of both Americas, presenting them in the form of a dramatic narrative. Having thus provided for historical accuracy, the hundred or more producing organizations making up the motion picture industry will turn over to their corps of skilled technicians, artists, directors and actors the prodigious task of staging and filming the revue.

Jealousy indicates misplaced affection.

BOND PURCHASERS ASK AID OF THE STATE FORCES

SACRAMENTO, June 4.—Scores of inquiries from prospective bond purchasers have flooded the State Corporation department from various sections of the state, as the result of the recent arrest of Josiah Kirby, formerly president of the Cleveland Discount company, according to an announcement made here today.

In nearly every instance, Commissioner of Corporations Edwin M. Daugherty has been asked to state an opinion on collateral trust bond issues.

Harry W. Moore, chief auditor of the Corporation department, prepared the following analysis of collateral trust issues:

"The return of an indictment against Josiah Kirby, former president of the Cleveland Discount company, by the grand jury in Los Angeles county, or the failure of the Cleveland Discount company as a financial institution, should not in any way be construed as a reflection on commercial finance companies or collateral trust bonds as a means of financing.

"Collateral trust issues as authorized by the commissioner of corporations, are secured by collateral placed with a California bank or trust company as trustee. This collateral must be in real estate mortgages or trust deeds, which shall not exceed 60 per cent of the fair value of the property, or in commercial paper, as automobile contracts or other contracts of sale, on which at least one-third of the purchase price has been paid in cash. For each $110 of collateral placed with the trustee, companies are allowed to issue $100 face value of bonds. These bonds are certified by the trustee to the effect that there is collateral behind each bond in accordance with the above.

"Collateral trust bonds are a safe and conservative method of financing, both from the standpoint of the company and the investor.

"Investors should always request a copy of the permit as issued by the commissioner of corporations.

"The indictment of Josiah Kirby is based upon the fact that the Cleveland Discount company sold collateral trust bonds in violation of the terms of the permit on the partial payment plan.

"All purchasers of bonds made in accordance with the State corporation permit are amply protected. Only those who failed to comply with the permit and purchased on partial payment plan were affected by the receivership. Moral, investigate before investing."

Never judge a woman by the company she is compelled to entertain.

Young man, beware of sweethearts with sour dispositions.

SWEDEN PLANS A SUBSTITUTE FOR FUEL OIL

[By Associated Press]

STOCKHOLM, May 12.—Sweden can face the menace of world shortage of petroleum with relative calm, in spite of having no domestic supply of that fuel, according to Axel F. Enstrom, a leading Swedish industrial and financial expert, in a recent address before the Association of Swedish Industries.

One of the most important sources of fuel oil which has recently been experimented with here is bituminous shale. It was estimated by the speaker, that the Swedish shale deposits could yield about 500,000,000 tons of shale oil. Production on a small scale is at present being carried on.

A still more practical substitute for petroleum is wood alcohol, said Mr. Enstrom. And Sweden could within a short time produce wood alcohol in quantities corresponding to the present consumption of gasoline. Its manufacture as a by-product of chemical wood pulp is particularly economical. The existing factores have a capacity of about 5,000,000 gallons of wood alcolhol a year, and with new building and still more highly developed methods of conservation, he declared, this capacity could be increased to about 17,000,000 gallons a year.

Finally, Sweden, because of her great hydro-electric resources, will in the future permit a very much greater use of electricity stored in batteries. Almost every section of the country is now served by the net of power lines, and electricity could be drawn from them for the use of passenger cars, trucks and tractors.

CALIFORNIA FRUIT DEMANDED BY N. Y. HOUSEWIVES

[By Associated Press]

NEW YORK, June 5.—A finicky palate and the one-big-market habit are the principal reasons why New Yorkers pay so much more for fruit and vegetables than the producing farmer gets for them, says a report prepared by Walter P. Hedden for the department of agriculture and the Port of New York authority.

In the first place, it requires 141,000 carloads of the stuff each year to satisfy the hungers of the city's 8,000,000 persons, and all of it, as the first step in distribution from rail-head to consumer is dumped in Central market, a narrow stretch extending for a few blocks along the west side waterfront of Manhattan.

This custom has grown up, Mr. Hedden explains, because all the jobbers of the city insist on seeing all the newly-arrived fruit and vegetables and on comparing rivals' prices, before they will buy. Thus attempts to break the dominance of the central market have failed.

Then the problem of diversity arises. A few years ago, the report indicates, the public appetite accepted its produce in bulk—oranges for breakfast, always, or perhaps apples, and a few potatoes, onions and other common vegetables throughout the week.

Now the average housewife must have California grapefruit for her breakfast table one day, Florida grape fruit the next, Oregon apples the third, New York apples the fourth, Michigan peaches the next, continuing with fruits of various clime. Going through the day of meals she will require celery, common lettuce, iceberg lettuce, spinach, escarole, romaines, etc., without end.

Thus the shipper, the jobber, the wholsaler, the retailer and, perhaps the corner-store grocery are confronted with the necessity of handling an infinite number of part-car lots, part-truck shipments, part crates and split packages. With each transfer the element of perishability increases and the cost per unit to the ultimate consumer goes up, says Mr. Hadden.

A ship from the gulf or a ferry of carloads from a New Jersey terminal lands at Manhattan in the evening. All night stevedores unload it and arrange it for display in the central market.

Space is so limited that many companies keep motor and horse trucks in line for hours, to get early loads when the market opens at 5:30 a. m. Between ship or car and truck is operated a motor shuttle service, to save room and prevent thievery. This costs $20 a car for unloading, Mr. Hadden figures.

The shuttle loads the waiting trucks, which haul the produce to five outlying jobber's markets. The cost is $35 a car in Manhattan; $57 in Harlem. The wholesaler makes his purchases at the jobbers and hauls them away with his own trucks. Cost, about $25 a car. Then he delivers to the retailer, adding another $25 a car to the ultimate cost of the fruit and vegetables.

The retailer, if he delivers to his customer, adds the cost to his bill.

"Nothing is more certain in regard to handling of fruits and vegetables at New York City than that the terminal facilities now provided are rapidly becoming utterly inadequate," is Mr. Hadden's conclusion. It is this problem of terminals and the rapid distribution of food that the Port of New York authority, aided by the department of agriculture, has set out to solve.

HOW TO REMOVE STAINS

How to remove stains from household linen and clothing was told in a recent radio talk over station KFAE by Miss Edna Irene Avery of Tacoma, home economics instructor at the State College of Washington. She said in part:

One of the stains a housekeeper most frequently has to remove is a coffee spot on the linen or cotton tablecloth. If cream has been used in the coffee soak the spot in cold water, then stretch it tight over the top of a good-sized mush bowl, and slowly pour through it plenty of boiling water (not merely hot, but boiling.) Hold the kettle about two feet above the spot. If this is done when the spot is fresh it should disappear at once. If it does not, try rubbing a little glycerine into the spot, let it stand a bit, then wash out with soap and hot water.

Coffee stain on silk may sometimes be removed by placing the silk between two damp cloths and pressing with a hot iron. First be sure the water in the damp cloth will not affect the color of the silk. If a grease spot remains, use chloroform or gasoline.

Tea stains are apt to be more troublesome than coffee stains, and must therefore be attended to very promptly. It is the tannin in the tea which makes it stain so thoroughly—and tannin is used in dyes to fix the color more permanently. That is one reason why tea is better than coffee for ecruing lace or silk. Black tea will give one shade of tan, and green tea another. If there was milk in the tea, the stain is easier to remove, because the protein in the milk affects the tannin. Soak the stain first in cold water to soften the milk protein, then place over a bowl and treat as in case of coffee stains. If the stain is a bad one, add a little borax to the cold water you soak it in first. If the stain is on wool or silk, sponge with hot water if the texture will not stand the boiling water process. Removing fruit stains will be dealt with next week.

"You seem much interested in my son," gushed Mrs. Dapper. "Why it seems only yesterday that he was taking his first steps."

"It must have been," assented Miss Flapper. "He dont know any of the later ones.

CHECKS ON CRIMINALITY

By H. ADDINGTON BRUCE
Author of "The Riddle of Personality," "Self-Development," Etc.
(Copyright, 1923, by The Associated Newspapers)

There is much talk of the importance, the necessity, of diminishing the occurrence of crime. With every new "crime wave" we hear a clamorous demand for remedial action.

But I notice that the demand is almost altogether for action by those public officials whose special business it is to detect, arrest and punish criminals.

Judges are criticised for lack of severity. Prosecuting attorneys are urged to relentlessness. Policemen and detectives are condemned for alleged inefficiency.

Yet what, after all, have judges, prosecuting attorneys, policemen and detectives to do with the making of criminals?

And if it really is desired to put a check on criminality, should not the demand be for removal of conditions which tend to the production of crime?

Everybody knows, for example, that to herd people into crowded, dark, noisome tenements means for many thus herded such a weakening of the morale that they drift almost inevitably into crime. Public opinion, nevertheless, still tolerates the slums.

Public opinion tolerates, too, the distribution of crime-inciting literature, the presentation of crime-suggesting "moving pictures," the parading—one might sometimes say the glorifying—of crime in news dispatches. It tolerates these despite the well-established fact that ideas tend always to find realization, and that the world abounds in people uncommonly susceptible to demoralizing ideas.

And public opinion tolerates the continuing failure of many parents, not merely to render their children less susceptible to demoralizing ideas, but to give them strength of character and right sentiments.

"The health boy does not live," an eminent criminologist reminds us, "who has not committed acts which would bring him within the pale of the law were he of age and caught in his mischief and the usual legal remedies dispensed to him.

"The child of good parentage may get the spanking, and his selfish disregard for the rights of others will eventually be replaced by altruism. The child who has no parents or too indulgent parents or vicious parents may end one day in jail."

Why should not public opinion insist that parents make child training as much their business as the gaining of a livelihood?

An impractical recommendation, you perhaps say. So, too, you perhaps regard as impractical the recommendation that slums be completely abolished, that stricter measures be taken against literature and "movies" inciting to crime?

If it really is impossible to carry out these reforms, then you might as well give up all thought of ever putting effective checks on criminality. Your judges cannot do that for you, or your prosecuting attorneys, your policemen and your detectives, no matter how you hound and abuse them.

Their concern is with effects, not causes. And crime is like every other social evil in that its occurrence can be lessened only in so far as its causes are rooted out.

GAMBLING RESORT PLANNED FOR HELIGOLAND

By GUS M. OEHM
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

BERLIN, June 5 (United Press).—Heligoland, the little island in the North Sea, seeks the laurels and the income of Monte Carlo.

The island resort is about to build a gambling casino which, it is hoped, will bring sufficient earnings to the local government to make all island folk free from taxation, just as the residents of Monaco, the principality where the Monte Carlo casino is located, are free from taxes.

This is to all intents and purposes a declaration of war by Germany against France, so far as getting the tourist gambling business is concerned.

Heligoland has always been a favorite resort, largely patronized because of its beach. Now, in addition, the local government plans to erect a casino which will draw a new and wealthier class to its shore.

Heligoland, through heavy attacks by the sea and because of the powerful blasts destroying the former fortifications, is slowly growing smaller and smaller, but its residents believe that it has a long time to live.

ICE CURE IS NOW RECOMMENDED FOR BRIGANDS

According to a well-known sociologist, there is a definite relationship between crime and food supply. A country or community which has a sufficient supply of food does not experience the social unrest as does the country whose inhabitants are always on the verge of starvation. Hunger is the real mother of revolution.

Mexico, prior to the present administration, was a good example of this. The recent outbreak of brigandage in China is another. China is proverbially a hunger-stricken country, not through lack of industry on the part of Chinese farmers and food producers, but for the reason that generally speaking, the science of food preservation is unknown in China. Ice is used only in the large cities and is for the most part confined to European and American quarters. Food supplies cannot be conserved, and the result is famine, with its attending social unrest and acts of violence.

The fact that this country is comparatively free from such acts seems to bear out the theory. Probably, there is no country in the world whose inhabitants are as well fed as the United States—no country whose people enjoy such an abundant supply of good food. Practically all classes understand at least the fundamental principles of food hygiene, and the practice of keeping food stuffs fresh and pure by means of a well-iced refrigerator is common to the majority of American homes.

GIVE UNLIMITED SERVICE IN 'SCAPE ART

"We are equipped to fill any order in landscaping, from $50 to $50,000," said R. H. Thompson, proprietor of the Golden West nurseries, located at 1918 South San Fernando road.

"I invite all those interested in doing any sort of landscaping, from the smallest sized job to the largest, to come and talk over the plans with us. Now is the time to plant, and almost every kind of flower or shrub will thrive if planted at the present time."

The Golden West nurseries comprise three-fourths of an acre of ground, set in almost every variety of plant life under cultivation. Landscaping as a part is being entered into by Mr. Thompson, who has handled shrubbery for 27 years, and he states that those planning any landscaping may see him, and he will "say it in figures."

If a man is prosperous he has no use for his friends. If he isn't they have no use for him.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

The following copy of an open letter to the mayor and city council has been received from Mrs. John S. Knox, with request for its publication.

Gentlemen:

The constitution of the United States insures to all of us unrestricted freedom in the guardianship of our souls but, apparently, our bodies and those of our animals belong to the medical trust. Many of my ancestors and no doubt, yours as well, away back in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries bought and paid for with their own blood their and our religious liberty. We may worship at the feet of a god of cloth and tinsel or worship not at all.

But the methods of curing our physical selves, of caring for our dependent, sub-human creatures would be arbitrarily laid down to us through the pernicious activities of the medical machine. Think of it! Our souls are our own morally and civilly, but our flesh is or would become the property of one cult in the vast array of schools of healing. You may say this so in part only, but we assert it would be the situation today in totum if we did not continually fight off the arms of the dread octopus—pus-punchers — that persistently reach out to suck us in and to rob us of our bodily freedom.

The people of the state of California wrenched off one slimy tentacle of this repulsive creature when, in 1920, they secured the repeal of the compulsory vaccination law. As the members of the medical machine can no longer reap a harvest from vaccinating humans they now turn to the inoculation of dogs, defenceless, speechless beings who cannot protest against any laws that may be passed to govern them.

If you gentlemen of the council of the city of Glendale put over any ordinance compelling the vaccination or the inoculation of dogs under any circumstances whatsoever you are catering to and upholding a dangerous factionalism.

President Harding says: "We have coalitions which would invade the constitutional rights of others or subvert the constitution itself. We have our factions challenging both civil and religious liberty." Permit us to mention in particular a most threatening and vicious faction, the medical juggernaut that would ruthlessly ride down our inherent right to heal our sick bodies and those of our animals as our own beliefs would dictate.

Please remember, gentlemen, that among the forty-two thousand people who comprise our fair city there are citizens, voters, taxpayers, who are adherents of widely divergent curative cults—Naturopaths, Christian Scientists, Chiropractors, Homeopothists, "Regulars," and what not. What right has any individual or any set of individuals to foist upon the body politic the fads and fancies, the age-old superstitions, the grotesque hocus-pocus of one school of medicine? You, elected and supported by the people at large, have no more right to take such action than we have to demand a council comprised wholly of Catholics, or of Methodists, or of Atheists, or of Republicans or of Socialists. You should let the people vote upon the questions of inoculating dogs with "anti-rabic" serum and of appropriating the taxpayers' money to furnish the Pasteur treatment free to all those who can be bamboozled into taking it and then carefully note the returns!

If it were possible for you to keep your fingers on the pulse of the people whom you serve you would find it running pretty high at present, indicating a feverish condition not pleasant to contemplate.

There is a decided feeling that the persecution of dogs and the prosecution of their owners have gone far enough. There is also a general demand that you councilmen exercise the authority vested in you and bring it to a stop!

Who says dogs have rabies? Who says inoculation will prevent or cure it, if so? There are plenty of scientific men, among them Materia Medica exponents, who deny absolutely the existence of rabies. These men would doubtless at least equal in skill and learning the present incumbent of your public disease department. According to them, who have no axe to grind, this flagrant flaunting of fear propaganda in the face of an unthinking and a gullible public, this rancous yell of "mad dog" is nothing less than criminal.

We believe in seeking and eradicating the sources of all disturbances. In this situation we find the cause first in stale medicine, then in the county and finally in the city health boards. We suggest that you put the brain of your appointee in your public disease department under the microscope. We venture you will find right there more of the rabies germs (God save the mark) than in the brains of all the dogs in christendom!

One more suggestion is to the effect that you do away with the old Materia Medica regime in the public health board and install therein a corps of efficient sanitary engineers well schooled in the fundamental principles of hygiene. All this town or any other town needs is to be kept clean. The taxes of the individual citizen must not be applied to the support of any one curative cult any more than to the furtherance of any one religion. It is unthinkable, unreasonable, un-American and should not be tolerated.

Are we vassals or free-born Americans? Do we live in an autocracy or in a democracy? Is this Russia or is it America?

Very truly yours,
Mrs. John S. Knox.

NORMA TALMADGE IS REVELATION IN NEW FILM

Sent to prison for a theft that another girl committed.

Saved from an attempt at suicide.

Initiated into a band of blackmailers working only "within the law."

Specializing in breach of promise suits.

Sworn to get square with the employer who "sent her up" as an example.

Married to his son as a means of obtaining vengeance, but somehow this didn't work out as planned.

These are some of the dramatic and romantic things that happen to Norma Talmadge, as Mary Turner, in the screen version of "Within the Law," the First National picture directed by Frank Lloyd, which will be shown at the T. D. & L. theater tonight. But Mary is a good girl at heart and everything, of course, turns out well. It is said to be Norma Talmadge's biggest emotional role in motion pictures, and surrounding her is a cast of exceptional talent. Her leading man is Jack Mulhall, in the role of Dick Gilder, "victimized" son of Mary Turner's hated employer. Eileen Percy plays Aggie Lynch, the blackmailer, with whom Mary forms an acquaintance that sets her life on a new course. Lew Cody is seen as Joe Garson, forger, who sacrifices himself because of his love for Mary.

WHAT ABOUT THE MORALS OF 1923?

The sixth in the series of nine sermons to be preached by Rev. C. A. Cole, pastor of Central Christian church on the general topic, "Is the World Growing Better?" was delivered Sunday evening, June 3. The subject was: "In the Good Old Days—What About the Morals of 1923 in America?" Next Sunday night's sermon subject is "The Twin Orgies; Ignorance and Selfishness." Following is the text in full of last Sunday night's discourse:

Text: "And those that used the world as not using it (abusing it) to the full, for the fashion of this world passeth away." I Cor. 7:31.

When the growth in the last 150 years, since our country became a separate nation, in nearly every realm that advances man, is brought before our minds we sometimes wonder what is yet to be achieved for the race. Trace, if you will, the rise in the early years of the 19th century of the earnest and powerful spirit of philanthropy which has covered the earth with its benefactions and with missionary successes, which has brought into being a thousand agencies for human welfare; see the ever-growing stream of social conscience; observe the churches waking from a long sleep and descending to the lives of the people with a more persuasive theology, with an earnest and enthusiastic love for humanity; behold science and psychology transforming civilization; behold statesmen and politicians doing real things, great things for democracy; behold the whole orb of cvilization transformed from what it was a hundred years ago—and ask yourself why, why in spite of all this, is life no more happy and so unbeautiful, why is humanity so small, why is the heart of man so unsatisfied?

What multiplied efforts to better humanity! What giant strides of medicine, education and science! What marvelous abolitions of the inhumanities against which the great and fearless men of two and three centuries ago hurled their scorn! What changes in attitudes toward poverty. (And yet what poverty and misery on every hand!)

Yet, despite these achievements upward, if one looks upon the moral life of the present day, there is not the room for optimism one would wish to feel. If one were to listen in a dream to the "Laudamus" of Heaven, and then awake to hear the strains of immortal adoration translated into a drawing room ballad or the ballroom jazz and sung by a woman dressed in the last excesses of a lustful sensualism; or if one were to see the face of a shining angel, and came out of the ecstacy to find that face disfigured upon the glaring billboard of some corrupting advertisement; or if a man who had cherished in a far land the ideal of a perfectly beautiful and perfectly holy mother, returned after many years to find her horrible in sin or hideous with vulgarity—such disillusions would scarcely exceed, would scarcely more depress and embitter, than the disillusion of the optimist who goes out among leaders of social life, or among those prominently flaunted by the press, for the proofs of our social progress.

It doesn't seem, on the face of things, that we are happier nor better than our fathers were. Evil is flaunted before us so much that we come to believe that rottenness is spreading like a great gangrene over the land. The immorality and popularity of the dance, the theater and fashion; increase of gambling and the prevalence of vice, if viewed by comparison with a decade or two ago, do not furnish safe arguments in support of the belief that the world is getting better.

It can scarcely be questioned that there has been a fearful "let-down" in morals since the beginning of the great war. Yet, I have it from the best students of history and social reform that, as compared with other times when the world has been so shaken by strife as it has during the past decade, the "let-down" in morals is not a safe criterion to judge the trend of human life, and moreover the slump has not been so bad as those following other great upheavals of war.

My heart is made to stand still, however, when I am brought face to face with situations that are obvious to everyone, and when there is brought to view the complete blending together of forces that are certainly inimical to the future moral welfare of our race. The president of the American Tobacco Trust and certain New York bankers organized the "Association Opposed to National Prohibition." I am told that a certain tobacco company is securing the names of boys and girls who are graduating from our high schools in order to send each one a graduating present of tempting cigarettes. The relation of the cigarette to the dope evil is so close that most of the dope habit can be traced to the cigarette. Latest statistics show that one person in every 73 in the United States is known to be an addict. Some investigators place the number at four million. Over 25 per cent of these form the habit before 20 years of age. The treasury department of the United States says that most of the heroin and cocaine addicts are young people; 60 per cent of the time of the two federal judges of Southern California is taken up with prosecution of cases originating under the narcotic act. "America cannot exist part free and part slave."

Smoking of cigarettes among women is spreading like wildfire. Someone says, "Women have as much right as men to smoke." Listen to an Eastern seer who spoke as though inspired when he said, "Where women are honored, the divinities are complacent; where they are despised, it is useless to pray to God."

Modern half-dress, or catering to masculine curiosity, emphasizing the sex idea, is striking such a staggering blow at morals and life in America that only the strongest Christian stability in young men can stand.

Gambling runs riot, even in our fair city. Churches, clubs, business houses, street fairs, theaters, and real estate men, etc., are lending their aid, sometimes innocently, to the craving in humanity to get something for nothing. The giving of automobiles, candy, hams, kewpies, etc., by drawings and with the principle of "chance" being the drawing feature, is gambling and construed by the laws of the state as pure and simple lottery. Its popularity seems to preclude action by the authorities or by citizens who realize its seriousness. We will reap the whirlwind in our coming generation from this pernicious habit of reputable men and women.

The studied attempt on the part of those inimical to our best institutions to ally with themselves religious bodies to destroy our Christian day of worship is a menace every true American should resent with all his soul.

What can be said of the modern dance? In the Times-Picayune of New Orleans in a recent editorial is a consistent statement and you will be profited by its timely warning. "The trouble with questionable dancing is that there is unquestionably bad! In the great up and down of the dance, from the very beginning of history, each period dip has reached some revolting level of vulgarity that has forced a revulsion of feeling and blue laws. There has been a gradual undermining of the sensitive feelings of a large element of the public, until today, actions are tolerated and moralities accepted in connection with social functions, which until recently would have subjected those who gave them, to instant ostracism. The present period of dance degradation is striking at our boys and girls, our young women and men, and thus at the very vitals of our future society."

Everywhere it is being emphasized that the church is too strict and old-fashioned in its attitude to this and other evils; that it should condone, since young people "will dance." Listen! Whenever the church tries to capture the world by "fighting the devil with fire," she herself gets captured and scorched! Furthermore, and most emphatically, all right-minded young men and women today will resent the imputation that they can only be won and held to the church by its pandering to the giddy and fleshly side of their natures. No! Christianity means heroic self-renunciation, or it means nothing at all. The only way that the church can really win and hold the young who are worth the winning is by the beauty of holiness and the joy of service. Not to get something upon the low level of fleshly enjoyment, but to give something upon the superb heights of the spirit, is what the church really stands for. It is not a club nor a reform organization. It is the society of redemption from the flesh and the devil. The Christian church must divorce itself absolutely from the sinfulness of the world. Self-sacrifice has in it far more attractive power than selfish indulgences.

There is little question to fair-minded people that the moving picture enterprise as it has been run is our greatest menace. It is estimated that the monthly attendance at these theaters more than equals the entire population of the United States. Unless we can have a regeneration of the industry and unless the public schools and Sunday Schools of our land use this most important educational feature to a more efficient degree, the moving picture business will be our moral undoing.

It is a terrible arraignment of the moral torpor and indifference of our citizenship that so little is said and done about the evils that are corrupting the morals of our youth and striking at the health and very life of the race. There are other things about which we should be awake, than those mentioned.

But, what about the good old days? I do not believe that the present days are a criterion by which to base our entire judgment as to whether the world is growing better morally. We will probably get over our post-bellum debauch and if we do react, it will possibly be to the highest moral plane our civilization has ever known. It would be eminently fair to think of the moral life of ten years ago and compare it with former generations, if we could. I would like to enter as Exhibit A, a statement from the Galveston News of the year 1874, when our fathers and mothers were young:

"Never was there a time in the history of society showing such a want of discipline and so strong a tendency toward looseness as at present. It is seen, felt and read of at all times and in many places, building up a fearful influence of evils which, if not checked by banishing ignorance and pushing forward more earnestly the cause of education and religion, will demoralize the tender years of youth; crush out the virtue of polite society and the good old rules which rear the eager boy and blushing girl into years of discretion, modesty, culture and usefulness."

That is a pretty severe indictment of young folks. We don't want you grandfathers and grandmothers to be too self-congratulatory about it, but if "you old folks" were as bad in 1874 as Col. J. H. Martin said in this article, it is to somebody's credit that inside of 49 years you managed to reform and turn over several leaves in the book of life.

We have no doubt that the young folks of 74 A. D. were as terrible as those of 1874. There are some historical evidences that they were much worse. The "good old days" are still on ahead of us.

"A little more than 100 years ago, when an elder of the Presbyterian church was being lowered into his grave, the four elders who carried him were so drunk they fell into the grave on top of his casket. Dr. Brown, the officiating clergyman, announced that thereafter he would refuse to officiate at any funeral where drinks were served before the service." (From P. H. Welshimer, Canton, Ohio.)

To be sure, we do not live in a Paradise, but we live in better days than did our fathers, morally, from most angles. And there is a line being drawn between the forces that make for righteousness and those that would tear down character and life and the future bodes good and not ill.

Your duty and mine is to make our part of this world better, by the grace of God. The need of the hour is manhood, MEN. Men who are alive, willing, bleeding for the sake of the race, praying and seeing that their prayers are answered, giving like He gave, on fire for righteousness, tolerating no compromise, truckling to no class or caste, not ashamed to own their God and stand four-square for Him in all the moral stamina or soldiers, who hear the call of a day like this and enlist for SERVICE; men who believe that bad situations need not remain such, who never despair over any situation where what ought to be is not, who are willing to keep clean and, by the grace of God, will be clean, no matter what the temptations, for they know they have deathless souls to save, who are willing to and will "use this world as not abusing it, for the fashion of this world passeth away."

Busts of Grant and Lee, Civil War Foes, Unveiled Together at N. Y. Hall of Fame

Busts of seven eminent Americans were unveiled recently at the Hall of Fame, New York university. Two of the busts were of General Ulysses S. Grant and General Robert E. Lee. The bust of General Lee was unveiled by Dr. George Bolling Lee, grandson of the Confederate leader. He is seen standing in front of the bust. Major General J. G. Harbord, U. S. A., retired, unveiled the bust of General Grant.

Though she was old she wasn't by any means incapable of supporting herself, and at the age of 79 she went into the business of providing teas for perspiring cyclists and storing the cycles of those travelers who decided they had better return by train.

Her first customers were four young men who left their cycles in her charge while they explored the neighborhood. For each cycle she gave them a ticket with a number on it.

Late at night the tourists returned.

The dear old women led them to their cycles with a smile of self-satisfaction on her face.

"You'll know which is which," she told them, "because I've fastened duplicate tickets on them."

They thanked her, and then they found their cycles and discovered that the tickets were neatly pinned into each back tire!

When the yellow streak begins to work out on some people they have a fit of the blues.

NEWS AND VIEWS OF BURBANK

WILL ACQUIRE LICENSE FOR DEALER

Real Estate Agent Will Call at City Hall

If you do not go to the city hall, the city hall will come to you, a real estate dealer has discovered. J. R. Saddler, 471 East San Fernando boulevard, has been selling real estate in Burbank for five months, but he has neglected to call at the city hall for a license.

Mr. Saddler was very surprised to hear that a real estate dealer paid a license fee to the city. "Do all the other real estate men pay fees?" he queried when asked for his fee by a collector from the city clerk's office. He seemed very pained to hear of such a thing, but promised to call Tuesday to pay his fee for the year, upon learning that it is being done in the best regulated families.

Disregarding the police officer directing traffic, and the barricade on the newly paved road on West San Fernando boulevard, M. J. Shipman, 380 West Eightieth street, Los Angeles, ran full steam ahead. When brought to a stop, the officer found the driver was intoxicated.

Shipman was brought before Judge Crawford Monday morning and fluently told of twins, a sick boy, a little girl, a wife and a home to be paid for. He promised he would never be found out on San Fernando boulevard, drunk, again. The judge fined him $20 and gave him a suspended sentence during good behavior.

The exhibit will show the result of the year's school work. It will give parents an opportunity to compare Jane's achievements with those of every other child in town. It will be an interesting display to people who have no children in the school, for it will show what kind of school work the Burbank children are doing.

The collecting of the samples and arranging them for showing has meant a great amount of work on the part of the teachers, and therefore they are anxious that every one attend and see the results.

NEWS OF EAGLE ROCK CITY

FINAL MEETING OF CENTRAL P.-T. A. JUNE 6

Officers Will Be Installed and Dr. H. J. Haisch Will Speak

The final meeting of the Central P.-T. A. takes place at Central school tomorrow, June 6. New officers, for next year will be installed. These are:

President, Mrs. J. C. Reiter; first vice-president, in charge of the membership committee, Mrs. J. E. Arbogast; second vice-president, in charge of program, Mrs. Anne Harrison; third vice-president, chairman of the hospitality committee, Mrs. A. G. Bailey; secretary, Mrs. L. A. Hutchins; treasurer, Mrs. W. S. Quarterman.

Retiring officers will offer their summary of the past year's work.

Dr. H. J. Haisch, local dentist, will make an address on "The Care of Our Children's Teeth," and Richard Arbogast will give a reading.

Following the installation of officers, a conference on the important steps to be taken in the P.-T. A. work next year will ensue. No definite outline of the complete plans for the year can be presented by the president at this time, owing to the change in government which might alter any entertainment plans which were formulated at this time. However, the affairs which will be the outstanding features of the work will be discussed and planned at this time.

C. OF C. WILL NOT MEET THIS WEEK

There will be no chamber of commerce meeting this week, as the necessary business cannot be executed until the committee members are lined up by the committee on committees.

JUNE 12 IS EAGLE ROCK RADIO NIGHT

Local Talent Will Spread Fame of This Section From Times Radio

Every radio enthusiast in Eagle Rock will make a special effort to postpone all other engagements on Tuesday, June 12, to tune in on KHJ and get an evening of real entertainment listening to the Eagle Rock radio program which will be broadcasted from the Times radio station on that date.

The realty board is behind the preparations and many persons are taking an active part in lining up some splendid representative talent of this district. A number of special "booster" features have been considered as a setting for the program, and to "tell the world" about Eagle Rock without boring listeners with long and more or less ineffectual talks on the good points of the locality. The committee in charge is considering interspersing the program with "booster" talk of a more or less amusing nature, just as it might come from participants in any entertainment. Another plan in question was to broadcast the conversation from a "rubberneck-wagon," much as the conversation on points of interest along the entire trip to Bear lake was conveyed back by radio from a party following that interesting route last week. For the former plan, such conversations as this might be heard between selections:

"Where's Brown? He's due to sing this number."

"Here he comes now. See him hurry. Wonder why he's late."

"Hello, Brown. Why the delay?"

"Phew! Puff, puff, puff. Phew! Been running, boys. Wait until I catch my breath."

"Well, you know that vacant lot we count on to cross, down by Central. Well, when I went home last night it was all right, but this morning I found a brick business block almost built there, and I tried to get over another short-cut nearby, and a bungalow court was up there, since yesterday. I had to go around four other new places and just missed the car. Phew!"

"Well, let's get on. Ladies and gentlemen, the next number will be a solo by—etc., etc."

The program is not fully arranged, but a number of unusual selections are promised by Eagle Rock talent eager to assist in putting on a notable program for this locality. To date, a whistler, a bell-ringer, a talented reader and a well-known glee club have volunteered. A saxophonist of first quality, and a banjo soloist, are being looked up for the program, also.

The following committee is in charge of the event: Page Noll, Samuel Ratliffe, Elmer Bergsvik, Mrs. E. D. Koen and Mrs. E. Lowry Fischer.

Eagle Rock Personals

Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Runge, of 116 Floristan avenue, spent the week-end at Mount Lowe.

M. J. Miller and family, of 228 Mariposa, are planning an interesting motor trip to Big Bear lake, where they have a cabin. Miss Helen Miller, secretary to Superintendent Harwood of Central school, will have a leave of absence and go with her parents. They will start on Wednesday and will not return until Sunday.

EAGLE ROCK FOLKS ENLARGE CLUB TO TWENTY

The original club of ten Eagle Rock persons who planned to erect a family lodge upon the lot which they purchased in the Brigg's Terrace tract, two miles north of La Crescenta, has been dissolved and the restrictions changed to allow 20 or 25 persons to join the club. The lot was changed for one of higher elevation, nearer the wilds, and quite as satisfactorily located and covered with as many mountain shrubs as was the first choice.

Thirteen members in this organization have been signed up. A large crowd attended the picnic Sunday, and were more than satisfied with the natural beauty of the tract. No action was taken on the building question, but as soon as the 20 are listed, actual building plans will be considered. Wednesday night the people who have taken an interest in this project will meet at the Central school to complete arrangements of membership.

The question of a name for the club will be considered at this meeting.

A large group of Eagle Rock people and their friends were on hand for the picnic last Sunday, including: Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Terry, Mr. and Mrs. Mann and family, Mrs. E. Lowry Fischer and son, Joseph; Mr. P. H. Holland, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Dorrance and family; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Chase, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Morrow and family, Miss Cecil Mathew, Mr. and Mrs. Blumer and family, Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Koen and son, Richard; Mr. Kell, Miss Vera Davis, Dr. and Mrs. A. Roy Koen, Mr. Reasland, and Mrs. Cook, all of Eagle Rock; and Mr. and Mrs. Rich and Mr. Cecil Pyle of Glendale. Miss Alta B. Terry of Ventura, also spent the day with Eagle Rock friends on the tract.

The day was spent in hiking and in dancing in the big barn which has been turned into a community center. Next Sunday the group, which plans to spend the day at the tract again, will take a Victrola, and plans are laid for a bigger and better day than the former enjoyable ones. Picnic space will be reserved for all Eagle Rock people who are interested.

UNITED HAS NEW VENTILATION SYSTEM

'Electric Typhoon' Method Insures Frequent Change of Atmosphere

At a cost of $800, a superior method of ventilation, known as the "electric typhoon system," has been installed in the Eagle Rock United Theatre. This system effects a complete change of atmosphere every seven minutes despite the number of people in the audience. The air is drawn in through the roof, 30 feet above ground, and forced out through the front, or drawn in and forced out through the rear of the building, which insures a satisfactory temperature and condition of the air throughout every performance. The electric typhoon system is in use in many of the largest theaters in the country and is second to none in its efficiency.

Truths in Epigram

A LAW UNTO ITSELF

A strong element in New York is making an effort to nullify prohibition. It seems to be the idea of these people that if they can cause repeal of the state prohibition law, they will be free to barter liquor, or to drink it unrestrained. A more peculiar claim hardly could have been set forth by a community living under the constitution. The hope of this group is futile, and the frank expression of it a measureless insolence.

The movement naturally centers in New York city. This is a metropolis geographically American, but in its social make-up largely alien. It has at times made known its desire to be erected into a separate state. This alone was an indication of its wish to be a law unto itself. It did not desire to be hampered by the agricultural population, nor yet by the residents of such villages as Buffalo and Elmira. Not content with being the big frog in the puddle, it sought to have a puddle exclusively its own. The present manifestation is in accord with that spirit.

Even though New Yorkers think they are at liberty to ignore the fact, the knowledge is quite general that there is an amendment to the constitution outlawing the whole liquor traffic. The amendment was put there by the votes of the people. It had a definite meaning, stated in terms wholly intelligible. The restrictions were meant to apply equally to the citizens of Podunk or of the metropolis. If New Yorkers think to become immune through the simple process of repealing a local statute in harmony with the amendment, they must be a singularly stupid folk.

It is the duty of good citizens to be governed by the constitution. Such persons as object are not good citizens. Happily they are in the minority. In a country where the majority rules, this means nothing more nor less than that they will obey whether they like it or not. The fundamental law will prevail. What the disgruntled do with such law as is on their own statute books, and in consonance with the spirit of the amendment, is not of great consequence. They may repeal it if this be their pleasure. Thereby they would proclaim that they were opposed to the constitution, but they would not weaken the potency of the constitution. Respecting that document, and striving to meet its requirements, there is a large and influential citizenship, its will not to be thwarted by the New York wets.

UNSEASONABLE WEATHER

Telegraphic reports state that there is no summer yet in some parts of the east. The prospect is for continued coolness and possibly there will be actual cold. Not unnaturally there begins to be inquiry as to the conduct and portent of the sun. The glorious and usually well behaved orb of day is accused of not radiating the amount of heat that has come to be considered due. In reality there is nothing about which to be alarmed except the fate of such garden truck as prospers best with warmth.

Early in the nineteenth century there was a year when New England had no summer. A record of the date is not to hand, but it was about 1816. The climate simply ignored the calendar. The faithful almanac made its customary announcements, but the weather declined to conform. There was not a month in which the area did not experience heavy frosts. Ice and snow were visible much of the time. For once, seed time and harvest both were marked off the schedule. Some things were planted or sowed, but nothing was reaped.

Doubtless the good people of New England were much perturbed. They must have thought of a dying sun, an on-coming glacial visitation, and various other conditions not conducive to lightness of spirit. Nevertheless summer has been arriving regularly since then, lagging somewhat occasionally, but to be reckoned on with reasonable certainty. Weather is erratic. Within a week the now shivering easterners may be turning on the electric fans and perspiring with enthusiasm.

IMMIGRATION ODDITIES

A ruling has been made that the English bride of an American citizen will have to be sent back to England because the quota of immigrants from that country has been filled. The woman arrived with all the necessary papers showing that she had complied with every formality. Her passport had been vised by an American consular officer. There is not the slightest intimation that she would not be in every way a desirable citizen. The embarrassed visitor has appealed to Washington.

The purpose of an immigration law is to keep out such aliens as could not be economically acceptable. The design is to protect the melting pot from being clogged with waste and pernicious material. This method is a protection to industry as well as against the class that comes not with intent to profit by American institutions but to undermine and destroy them. It hardly is necessary to state that inspection should be at the proposed point of departure. To permit the arrival of a lot of aliens who must face the experience of going back whence they came, involves hardship to them, and much useless expense.

That a woman coming in good faith, and upon authorization that on the face of it seems definite and final, may be halted at the dock, shows the inelasticity of the present regulations, and tends to make them appear cruel and ridiculous.

It is said that a recent riot at a Chicago prizefight tends to make pugilism unpopular there. This hardly seems fair. The patrons paid their money to see one battle in the ring, and they saw not only this, but without any extra charge, a ring filled with battlers cracking every head within reach.

ACCEPTING A HANDOUT

For many months the United States kept soldiers in Germany. The understanding was that Germany would pay for the upkeep. The presence of the Americans was welcome. Germany not only made no objection, but when finally the force was withdrawn, expressed regret. Complications between that country and France made it unwise to keep the troops there longer.

As Germany pays the bill, it might be thought that payment would be direct to the United States. Not so. It will come, if ever, through the allies and according to their pleasure. Germany already has paid in part and has entered into agreement as to the rest. The United States, instead of receiving money from its debtor, will take it when the allies may choose to hand it over, in such sums and such times as may please them. This great country stands curiously obligated to assume the attitude of a mendicant accepting a handout at the back door. Either this, or it may forgive the debt, deeming the process of collection to be too deeply humiliating.

The United States made a separate peace with Germany. In advance such a course was denounced as shameful and unthinkable. It was so denounced by senators who later voted for it. This made of the United States a rank outsider so far as the allies were concerned. It is not to be imagined that had this country elected to do its part in the settlement of European affairs, the people with whom it had been associated in war, would have thought of ignoring its rights in peace, or thinking of it, could have dared to make the essay.

But having made the separate peace, it does not appear to the average American citizen why it should not have continued the policy of independence. It had the legal right to enter into the treaty. It had as plain a right to enter into financial negotiations. It calmly submitted to having the matter taken out of its hands. Its just powers have been usurped. Americans realizing this are ashamed.

The Loneliness of Success

By ESTELLE LAWTON LINDSEY

In this country more than in most success is made a fetish. We worship it, indeed, as a minor deity and preach its possibilities and the obligation to attain it.

Estelle Lawton Lindsey

Success means the possibility of commanding the service of material things, and it gratifies vainly while exercising one's powers. So far it is good, but there are many things to indicate that success can be bought at too high a price. Take these figures and notice them; they are authentic. In 1922 the suicide list showed that many of the wealthy and prominent, in other words the successful, did not find life worth living, and of these desperate people more bank presidents and heads of big business concerns killed themselves than people of other professions, to be exact 100 in all.

Next to them in order of numbers come millionaires of whom 79 took their own lives within 12 months, an average of 6 7-12 per month.

Eighty-four physicians went the suicide route, fifty-two judges, fifty college professors and teachers, thirty-eight college students and nineteen preachers and religious workers.

These figures seem to indicate that the further a man divides hmiself from his fellows the greater his discontent with life. Perhaps it is loneliness that tempts men to companionship with death. The head of a big bank, the president of a huge business concern, is likely to find himself ringed round by a wall of underlings whose duty it is to keep from him human beings. His search for privacy cuts him off from the currents of humanity that correct his point of view and keep his sense of proportion in a healthy condition.

Millionaires are lonely as a matter of course, and it is interesting to observe that they follow bank and business presidents in the matter of self destruction.

Physicians are by the nature of their work lonely and apart; in the midst of people they are without companionship as are judges, preachers and professors.

In the lower ranks of life men foregather and talk it out. There is small chance for brooding or melancholy. They may not be successful, but they are sociable, especially the foreign element, and often, very often, they are happy.

Business is a valuable pursuit but a poor God; success is worth while as long as it serves him who pursues it, but a curse when it absorbs all of life's human values. The function of business and success is to make companionship more available and life richer. When they fail in these ends they are but the forerunners of loneliness and despair.

THE RIGHT WORD

QUERIES

"Rent" or "Hire"

L. E. R.: "A says: I am going to rent a full dress suit.

B says: You cannot rent a suit, but you must hire a suit. However, you can hire and rent a hall. Please inform me whether or not to rent a suit is correct English."

To rent and to hire are synonymous terms. Either is correct.

"Is a Month"

Ada Silverman: "Recently I have had some discussion with one of my friends in regard to which of the two following forms is correct:

"'As it has been nearly a month since we received your letter . . .'

"'As it is nearly a month since we received your letter . . .'

"I will greatly appreciate it if you will tell me which form is correct."

You should have written, "I have had a discussion," not "some discussion." Either one of the expressions is correct.

Yesterday's Error.

Wrong: Somebody's going to have his picture took.

Right: Somebody's going to have his picture taken.

Queries

J. Grimm, Spokane Wash.: "Are there such words as pilferage and recoupered? What license, if any, permits the use of aren't I? Is the possessive case of it, its, or it's?"

Pilferage is out of use; say pilfering. Say recouped, not re coupered. Aren't I is incorrect; say am I not. The possessive of it is its.

THE LISTENING POST

By James W. Foley

JAMES W. FOLEY

Every now and then somebody writes an article about the solar system.

Something in it gets out of whack.

The sun loses a few spots.

Or takes on a few new ones.

Nobody knows just what, but the writers of easily readable "science" tell us about it.

* * *

Our solar system is an important thing, but none of us pays much attention to the operation or functioning of it.

In a great measure we take it for granted that the earth will travel its way about the sun safely.

And that the other planets will keep in their orbits and avoid a collision.

* * *

This rapid transportation has been going on for many millions of years and nothing has collided with us yet.

And the sun has been getting freckled and unfreckled again, but it has continued to do its business of heating and lighting at the old stand.

* * *

And we go turning handsprings through space at two speeds and directions, just as you might hurl a baseball to the batter.

It has a forward motion that takes it from the pitcher to the batsman.

And it has a revolving motion on its axis.

And the earth does the same thing.

* * *

So while you are sitting here reading this Listening Post, and it is to be hoped you are, you are being propelled through space at the rate of a half a million miles a day in one direction and a thousand miles an hour in another.

We hope the figures are right.

If not they can be corrected.

But the thing of it all is that it does not fret or alarm you any.

You are used to the knowledge.

And you don't feel the sensation.

* * *

So the earth is not to be worried about.

Tomorrow morning it will still be here.

It is more certain to be here than that you will be here.

But you can be reasonably certain that the old round of daily duties will stare you in the face.

* * *

And because it is cool in late spring, don't worry about the sun.

It will be plenty hot enough after while.

No two years of climate are exactly the same.

But in the end they average up about as we expect.

* * *

We have plowing time and seeding time and growing time and ripening time and reaping time and harvesting time.

As we have had for a good many millions of years.

And the solar system is right side up.

The sun is on the job.

The earth whirling and being projected properly.

* * *

Don't worry about the solar system.

It is better to be concerned more with the daily job.

With the weeds in the garden.

With the lack of paint on the house.

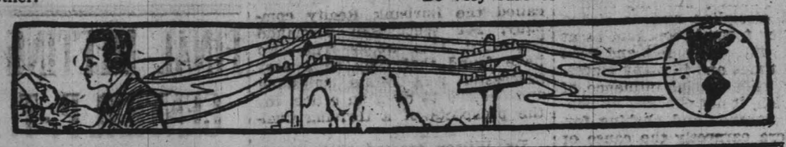
With the state of the flour bin.

These are important and practical things, always to be concerned about.

* * *

The solar system will do its part if you do yours.

Be very sure of that.



Songs of the Poets

Sweet Clover—By Wallace Rice

Within what weeks the melilot
Gave forth its fragrance, I, a lad,
Or never knew, or quite forgot,
Save that 'twas while the year is glad.

Now know I that in bright July
It blossoms, and the perfume fine
Brings back my boyhood, until I
Am steeped in memory as with wine.

Now know I that the whole year long,
Though Winter chills or Summer cheers,
It writes along the weeks its song,
Even as my youth sings through my years.

GOOD THOROUGHFARES

By DR. FRANK CRANE

A NEWSPAPER item the other day stated that the mayor of New York City had indicated that he would sign the bill enabling the city to issue corporate stock notes to an amount not exceeding $10,000,000 during the present year, of which sum $5,000,000 may be used for repaving thoroughfares.

This seems to indicate that the great business of doing things the wrong way still trots merrily forward.

There is only one way to keep the streets of a city in good condition, and that is to work at them constantly, immediately to repair any holes or breakages, and to keep the surface always in good condition.

The usual practice is to let the streets, day by day, in every way, get worse and worse, until the condition becomes almost intolerable. Then there is an appropriation run through to have them repaired.

This appropriation is usually handed over to a wide-awake company that magnifies its office and does not lose any money in the business of tearing up the whole street and putting it back again.

Good streets are about the most essential, fundamental need to a city's life. Every citizen is interested in them, including the wholesaler, who wants his goods transported from the railway to his store; the retailer, who must deliver these goods to his customers; the teamsters and chauffeurs, who conduct the vehicles; the owners of the trucks and wagons, the people who ride in taxicabs and private cars, also the milkmen, grocers' clerks, and everybody else.

Hence, there is no denying the importance of this matter.

And the very first thing that everybody ought to understand and write down at the head of the copybook is that no street pavement in the world will last forever. Nobody has ever invented a kind of pavement that does not need repair. And the only way to maintain good roads is to have that repair continuous and not occasional.

If the railway management looked after their road-beds the same way as the city looks after its streets, they would not send out any section hands to repair a road until there had been a wreck.

Good roads in a city are to be secured only by prevention, precisely as good health in a man can be maintained only by keeping fit and not waiting until he is down with some disease to call for a doctor.

The city should be carefully divided into sections, and in every small portion of it the streets should be kept in constant repair.

There are large stretches of streetway in New York City that are as bumpy and rutty as any country road, and the same is true of most other cities.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

NO "RECIPROCITY" IN RECIPROCITY

[Waterbury American]

Whenever the United States wants reciprocity with Canada, Canada does not want it. A very favorable plan was devised in President Taft's term and rejected by Canada. Now Canada has a desire for reciprocity and W. S. Fielding, minister of finance, is proposing to grant privileges to the United States in return for a reduction in the tariff on cattle, grain, vegetables, etc., from Canada. And, of course, at this time the American farmer rises up and will have none of it.

INCONSISTENT MALONE

[Richmond Times-Dispatch]

Consistency is not one of Dudley Field Malone's jewels. The former collector of the port of New York fires a broadside at masculine rule of the world, charging that men in their mismanagement of affairs have proved themselves unfit to govern, preparatory to announcing his own candidacy for President of the United States. He says he will depend upon the women to elect him.

It may be that Mr. Malone has evidence in himself of man's impotency to rule. His wife formerly was Miss Doris Stevens, a militant suffragist. Perhaps he knows by actual experience the pitiful inability of his sex to run the business of any household, whether it be individual or national. Mr. Malone has arrived at a very definite conclusion in this matter. "I believe," he says, "that in the future the world will be ruled by women. A man-made world has left 25,000,000 dead upon the battlefield. No sex could make a poorer job than the men. They cannot govern."

All this probably is true. But, knowing of man's complete failure in the business of government and having such faith in woman's future hold on her rightful place, why does Mr. Malone enter the presidential race? It would be consistent, it seems to us, if he should accept an inconsequential position in Mrs. Malone's campaign organization.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

Often it is said that nobody has a right to laugh at any claim advanced by science. The wildest dream of the inventive genius is not to be scorned. Visions that at first have seemed the outgrowth of inflamed imagination, frequently have eventuated in the actual.

The only embarrassment arises from the difficulty of recognizing the genius. Many an arrant pretender has been protected because his real status was not known. The famous Keely motor that never moted has not faded from memory.

All this leads to the assertion of a San Francisco doctor concerning an instrument he has devised. It detects and records the symptoms of disease. So susceptible is it that when a cancer sealed in a bottle was placed near it, it immediately made a squawk of some sort that the doctor affirmed was its method of registering the presence of this diseased tissue. It also registered inward agony when the leaf of a flower was rudely torn. When a leaf was divided by a sharp knife, the operation "causing no pain to the flower," the machine manifested no emotion.

Stephen Crane once wrote of "the screams of cut trees," but really there was sense in that. That a flower when rudely handled suffers in a way that may be mechanically registered is an allegation about four parasangs beyond the limit.

Compared with the statements of the San Francisco doctor, the spirit pictures of Conan Doyle stand forth as veritable emblems of devotion to truth.

* * *

Recently a very respectable family was observed riding in an automobile. But in the front of the machine there was the top of a severed yucca. That was no token of respectability.

There is a law against destruction of the yucca, and there could be no reason save pure wantonness for desiring to destroy it.

It is to be hoped that some policeman spied the despoilers and arrested them, but there seems to have been no record of such episode.

* * *

While attempting to progress with his machine one tire shy, and running on the rim, an automobilist experienced an upset, all in the car being injured painfully.

It is risky to run on a rim. A far better way is to park at the side of the road and send for help.

Reports from the federal building of this district show that business has greatly increased over the previous year. At the same time comes an order from Washington to cut down the office force ten per cent.

Showing that economy and lightning may strike any old place.

* * *

There is less construction work going on in eastern cities, but out here there is nothing corresponding to it, either present or prospective. The pressure for homes in southern California, far from abating, becomes all the time more apparent.

Everybody seems to want to come to California.

* * *

Los Angeles is about to hold an election. For the most part the issues are the concern of the resident of that city, but some are of interest to the whole community.

Everybody knows that there should be new viaducts across the Los Angeles river. The present ones are unsightly, inadequate, and unless far better than they look, less secure than they ought to be. This is one of the subjects that will appear on the ballot.

* * *

A theater manager in a nearby town accepts a rat in lieu of the ordinary price of admission. The youngster bringing the largest number of the creatures is to have a season ticket. This shows that in an unpopularity contest the rat would be likely to win.

Recently the wall of a new building in Pasadena fell down because the ground underneath had been undermined by rats. It was then remembered that when a crib that had stood on the site was demolished several years ago, some three thousand of the rodents were killed.

The rat is dangerous. It wastes yearly, the country over, millions of dollars worth of food. It is a conveyor of disease. It is believed that were the rat to be exterminated some of the worst maladies that afflict mankind would vanish.

The lesson of these facts would seem to be that if the world knows what is good for itself, it will conduct an anti-rat campaign covering the continents and the isles of the sea.

* * *

If ever a man had a station 'twixt the devil and the deep blue sea, Governor Smith of New York is the individual in question. He is called upon to sign the measure repealing the state prohibition law. In tones of equal volume and asperity he is called upon not to sign it.

It is a case of being damned if he does and damned if he doesn't, and it seems to be a case also of goodby Smith.

Excepting as to a person really great, an autobiography is the token of conceit, and nothing more.

The value of an autobiography must be in its truthfulness. When it appears in a sensational paper, and is recognized at sight as a conglomeration of lies, it not only is without value, but is a distinct influence for evil.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

Doc Henneberry has won another battle with a young mother. He rarely loses that sort of a fight, he says.

"After a woman matures and her brain hardens," says he, "she is a terrible antagonist. But while she is still young and hysterical the only safe way one can treat her is rough."

Doc isn't a cynic or a woman hater, but he is now at work on the third generation of babies in his town. One of the third generation had been giving trouble lately. Doc was being awakened out of a sound sleep almost every night by a frightened little mother.

"Baby's crying again——," she would whimper over the phone.

"Let him cry," Doc would bawl. "Do him good."

But she never did, and the infant blackmailed her into toting him around in her tired arms every waking moment. The moment that brat wakened he would yowl for mother.

"That baby must not be carried," Doc ordered. "You are simply encouraging him in a selfishness that may wreck his future and your happiness. The home-wreckers and drunkards of today are mostly men and women who were spoiled when they were babies."

But the young mother, whimpering, picked the baby up every time it cried. It would only be quiet when she was carrying it. So Doc swooped down one day with a nurse and an automobile and carried the kid away to a hospital.

The kid wept and howled and whooped.

"Let him holler," said Doc, brutally.

At 4 o'clock of the following afternoon he quit crying and began to smile. And he hasn't cried since. Doc is getting really fond of him.

"The smart little rascal," says he. "What a poker player that brat will make!"

DO YOU KNOW THAT—?

As a result of the recent rubber depression in the Federated Malay States, extensive experiments are being made in the cultivation of various crops suitable to the development of more diversified farming.

Wood is used for the manufacture of artificial silk, rope, carpets, and other fabrics.

It seems probable that the mineral and vitamin contents of dairy feed may have an important bearing on the reproductive ability of dairy cattle, a statement from the U. S. Department of Agriculture says.

Trachoma, a preventable eye disease, is especially prevalent among reservation Indians in Minnesota.

TRUTH IN ADVERTISING

The Glendale merchants are pledged to honest advertising. The blandishments, the cunning artifices and misleading use of words often employed by a certain class of "go-getters" have no place in the business creed of the merchants of this city who have banded together to stamp out advertising that is not sound to the core.

The merchants of Glendale are opposed to all methods of "drumming up trade" that do not stand "four-square" and that will not bear the calcium light of accuracy. The merchandise they offer to the people at all times is exactly as represented.

The merchants of Glendale believe that the making of money is not the sole object of business. They believe that Service should be the first aim of a business house. For, plainly, it is an axiom that the man who underestimates the importance of Service to his customers soon has no customers to serve.

In Your Own Home

~with its cheery atmosphere and unity of thoughts and love is where life's sweetest hours are spent.

IN TIMES LIKE THESE

With houses scarce and rents high, is when you should start applying the money you are now investing in rent receipts towards buying a home of your own.

Desirable homes, the kind you would buy or build, are renting today for more money than your payments would amount to if you were paying out for a home that would some day be your very own.

APPRECIATING THIS, it is important, indeed, that men and women of limited incomes take advantage of present Real Estate opportunities, determine in what part of the city they would prefer making their future home, and then arrange to buy the lot, and after you have obligated yourself to meeting the payments you will be happily surprised to see just how easy it is to master the habit of saving.

It is a privilege to be a Home Owner, and an honor to be able to boast of home ownership, and it is within the reach of all who are determined.

Have you ever stopped to realize that you who pay rent for a home every ten years and still allow some one else to retain ownership—here's what your rent amounts to, compounded semi-annually at 6%, paid the first of each month:

AT $30.00 A MONTH		AT $50.00 A MONTH
5 years	$2,099.61	5 years	$ 3,499.35
10 "	4,021.30	10 "	8,202.12
15 "	8,713.43	15 "	14,522.39

AT $40.00 A MONTH		AT $60.00 A MONTH
5 years	$ 2,799.48	5 years	$ 4,199.22
10 "	6,561.74	10 "	9,842.61
15 "	11,617.91	15 "	14,446.87

You had no idea your rent dollars multiplied into such staggering figures, did you? Well, here's a real practical suggestion: Apply your rent money towards buying a home of your own, and in a few short years, instead of being a collector of rent receipts, you will be a bona fide home- owner.

'GOLD DIGGERS' FROM EUROPE IN RING

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, June 5 (United Press).—If the old business war cry of "Patronize Home Industries First" can be applied to boxing, American promoters ought to let the prize products of Europe remain on the market on the other side.

It may be good business to inject the foreign element in the domestic affairs of the American ring, but it is certainly not doing the right thing by the home boys who ought to get first consideration.

The case of Mike McTigue is a good one to argue the point.

Mike was almost a "ham" when he was fighting around here several years ago. He proved the class of American boxing when he went back to Europe and was handed the world's light heavyweight championship—poor as he was known to be.

McTigue then became a "card" in this country for the simple reason that any title holder is a "card." But instead of matching him up with any number of good boys, he was signed to meet Carpentier.

The "Gorgeous Georges" has nothing to qualify him for such favoritism from American promoters. He owes America everything and America owes him nothing. He is through as a fighter and the boxing commission would be only acting fairly and in the interests of the constituents that it is supposed to protect if it would not allow Carpentier to box in a championship fight here until he has proved his right by beating some of the other American contenders.

American boxers get no sympathy and very little consideration in Europe. They are looked upon over there as greedy wolves who are after nothing but the money. Americans might consider European boxers who come over here from the same viewpoint, only they are more mercenary.

Eugene Crique had no right to a contest with Johnny Kilbane when there are several American boys who have been trying to get a crack at Kilbane for three years.

Jimmy Wilde had no right to come over from England and grab a purse from Pancho Villa when Little Frankie Genaro, who has beaten Villa three times, is forced to sit by idly and watch his chances slip.

Carpentier hasn't any right to fight Benny Leonard until he proves that he is better than a lightweight.

Joe Beckett will be over here before long and a lot of other European hams.

The "air" is all that any of them is entitled to.

PARIS PRICES TAKE THE U. S. HIKE

[By Associated Press]

PARIS, June 5.—The favorite topic of conversation, the high cost of living, displaced from time to time by the changing situation in the Ruhr, never is long neglected. Today it is flourishing. The vanguard of the 1923 crop of American tourists is here, and the retailers of the city are playing the game with the limit removed; any price goes.

But the truth of the situation is hard to determine. There arrived recently from the coast two heavy consignments of sea food, lobsters and cod. The lobsters were seized upon at 15 francs a pound, and the stalls quickly cleared. Nobody wanted the humble cod, at three francs a pound, and several thousand pounds had to be thrown away.

Foley's Friendly Fancies

JAMES W. FOLEY

BEHIND THE MASK

It isn't the flag of yours and mine
That is proudly floating o'er us,
It isn't the flag—that's but a sign
Of the great deeds done before us.
It isn't the flag brings victory,
For a hollow thing you'd find it,
No matter how proud it is and high,
Were it not for the men behind it.

It isn't the big machine that roars
With a voice that stirs the blood,
It isn't the scoop that dips and pours
Its mouthful of sand and mud,
It isn't the crusher that grips the stone
To bite and chew and grind it,
The work isn't done by this alone,
It's the men who stand behind it.

It isn't the saw and axe and sledge,
That measure the day of labor,
It isn't the word that binds the pledge
With the comrade or friend or neighbor.
For the tool or the word is a cold, dead thing,
And never we'd heed or mind it,
And never a deed well done 'twould bring,
Were it not for the men behind it.

Then judge not ever by pretense bold,
By promise or fine word spoken,
For the lie is a thing that is very old,
And a promise is often broken.
Judge not by the garb or the speech or dust
Cast into the eye to blind it,
But ere in a thing you place your trust
Look well at the men behind it.

A young country minister, noted for his jollity, was dining at a farmhouse one Sunday, and when the plate of roast chicken was passed to him he remarked, facetiously, "Well, here's where that chicken enters the ministry."

"Hope it does better there than it did in lay work," rejoined the bright boy of the family.

UNBLEACHED REED IS BEST FOR SERVICE

Phil D. Molen Explains the Manufacture of Reed Furniture

Only the manufacturer of reed furniture realizes the difference in the quality of material existing between the bleached and unbleached reed, states Phil D. Molen, proprietor of the Molen Reed Furniture store, at 417 East Broadway.

"The unbleached reed, while of course, it gives an uneven tone effect, is infinitely more durable than that which has been put through the lime. The fact is that a very good quality of reed does not take the lime readily, and when reed has been bleached thoroughly, it becomes brittle and less serviceable," he explained.

Mr. Molen is thoroughly experienced in the manufacture of reed furniture, having been in the business in Santa Barbara four years before coming to Glendale fourteen months ago. Everything in reed furniture and house furnishings is available at his place of business, including chairs, day beds, fern stands, tea wagons, baskets, trays, bird cages and floor lamps, and many novelties. He also presents a line of artistically colored work.

According to Mr. Molen, the temporary slump in reed furniture prices is over, as the duty on the imports of reed is 70 per cent. Labor is also reported to be higher at the present time than some time previous.

A man went into a barber shop to be shaved. Said he to the barber, in his gravest manner, "Have you the razor you shaved me with the day before yesterday?"

"Oh, yes, sir," replied the barber, with much exuberance and delight at the favorable appreciation and the tender interest evinced in his instrument. "Here it is, sir."

"Ah, well," said the visitor dryly, after a little hesitation, "then—yes—then — I'll take chloroform, please.."
